LRP

Doterra rewards loyalty with free oils and products - like a frequent flier program, you can set up a LRP (Loyalty Rewards Order). It is worth it if you use a lot of oils, or if you have a business with the oils or want to shift your household to be all natural. (I make all my cleaners, skin care products and many other things myself - and loving it, it brings out my inner witch and alchemist;)

Here is some preliminary info on that - happy to walk you through it if its of any interest to you. Or you can see a little video

LRP

By signing up with a LRP (Loyalty Rewards Program) you commit to a monthly order of your choice.

Here is how it works in a nutshell:

(Pv are mostly the same as $)

- 1 Point purchase keeps your LRP active (if you don't need anything or the budget is tight, you can order an on guard toothpaste for a few points)
- With 50 Points you keep accruing new points for free products
- 125 Points gets you the free product of the month plus commission if you are a Wellness Advocate

There is a few more perks, like getting a percentage of points back with every order and getting your shipping costs back too - if you decide to open an LRP, I can explain it all to you in detail.

The bottom line is that you'll save money on all your household staples like toothpaste, shampoo, cleaner concentrate, hand soap - and receive money back for doing so. You'll have the cleanest products available today, your home will smell incredible, you'll receive product credits for ordering monthly (which you're doing anyway, buying all those products for your home) and then on top of all that, superb quality, lower cost Essential Oils!
